Summary: Travelling back in time, Jun attempts to change the ending of Halo Reach... First fanfiction, 10 years old so no haters please!

Noble 7

So here we are getting killed by elites with energy swords fantastic. But what you saw at the end of reach wasn't what really happened. You see we didn't actually all die. Anyway here's what happened.

So here's me Emile and a few minutes ago I got stabbed in the heart with an energy sword. Now you may be confused on how I'm still talking to you and you will find that out soon. So all the nobles have died except for Jun and he doesn't like that he wants to find a way to change that.

"How can this happen" Jun cries out. "I need to try and find a way to change this but how. As Jun is desperately needing an answer he looks out the window and sees a little kid running around with a pretend assault rifle and noble 1 armour. It reminds Jun of Carter. Then Jun jumps up and runs out the door he thinks in his head "What would carter have done he would have changed it all!"

He runs to the kid and he's a ten year old boy with glasses and spiky hair. "OH MY GOD ITS JUN!".The kid almost faints. "Now kid did you know what happened to all our nobles. The kid replies with a faint voice. "They died." "And do you want to change that." As the little kids face brightens up he screams out "YES!"...
